Abstract of the Programme
The department of English regularly organising the various activities for the enhancement of the knowledge and personality of the college students. Under various activities, the guest lecture is one of the crucial activities of the department of English. Under this activity, Mr.Kailas Giri, Assistant Professor, Sant Janabai ACS College, Gangakhed was invited for the speech on the topic "Projection of Woman in Indian English Literature" on March 30, 2024. Principal Dr.Vasant Satpute was the chairman of the guest lecture. Dr.Vitthal Jaybhaye has introduced the programme as well as the chief guest Mr.Kailas Giri Sir. He also insisted on the detailed activities of the department of English of the college. Mr.Kailas Giri has focused on the women literature. He focused on the changing scenario of English literature regarding the woman writers of the New World. Hence, while analyzing the changing status of woman in India we find that the traditionally imposed image of woman better known as 'Sita-Savitri' image has undergone a major change. Indian woman today cannot be defined as someone silent, subordinate and sacrificing human being. She is an individual with a voice of her own, with aspirations and identity. The Indian English Fiction which highlights the status of woman in the Indian society clearly celebrates the new Indian woman by showing the change in the woman and her aspirations. The credit goes to the Indian women writers whose writing was initially criticized as kitchen literature, chick lit or feminist literature catering only to the female issues. It did focus on female issues but not exclusively as revolt but a gradual change that the life and thought process of Indian woman underwent. In their endeavour to write about this change the contemporary women writers wrote about the feelings and aspirations along with the burden and frustration of today's modern educated, middleclass woman in the society. As the President of the program, Principal Dr.Vasant Satpute Sir also speak about the changes regarding the English language and literature and woman writings. He insisted on the challenges before the students regarding the changes in life and literature. It provides a lot of advantages that you probably aren't aware of. Here are three advantages to studying English language and literature. In the end, our active fellow teacher Mr.Dilip Korde has proposed the vote of thanks of the guests and President of the program. Mr.Ravi Rathod, BASY student of the department of English has conducted the program.
Outcomes of the Programme

It is always found that, after end of the every guest lecture, the students of the college were became more enthusiastic regarding the importance of language and literature. They always inquire about the experienced outcome of the discussed topic of the guest lecture. The students understood that, one of the best ways to practise a language is to write. The more you write, the more you will be exposed to the new language. This improves your reading comprehension and, in turn, your creativity. It was also found that the creative writing helps the students regarding the learning of the fundamentals of a foreign language in a classroom setting. But learning English online with the help of highly-qualified teachers will also help you efficiently. The realised that, any language you learn keeps your mind active and challenging. When you learn a new language, your brain's activity and size change. There are several benefits to learning a new language, no matter what age you begin. Because of its complexity, when you decide to study English, you are putting yourself through an extra difficult workout.
